AMAZING TRACK RECORD IN FOOTBALL

ASA's long history of winning football selections

- 13 winning seasons in 15 seasons on Top Games (5*'s and higher)
- 11 winning seasons (all picks released) in 15 years of business
- 10* Midwest Game of the Year wins big AGAIN (covers by 24 points!) - now 12-3 lifetime record on MGOY
- 9* College Game of the Year WINS EASILY (covers by more than 3 TD's)
- 9* NFL Game of the Year WINS (underdog wins outright)
- 20-5 record the last four years in the NFL playoffs… #1 at Sports Monitor & Sports Watch
- ASA gives you 46 years of combined handicapping experience (Lee & Mike both started handicapping professionally back in 1989 & still going strong!)

NEW THIS YEAR FOR ASA FOOTBALL CUSTOMERS

- NFL & College Halftime bets (sent via text & email only)
- TNT – Thursday Night Teaser plays
- Rated plays or opinions on Monday & Thursday games
- Late steam (late info) winners on Saturdays & Sundays

www.ASAWINS.com
1.888.272.1098

Let Us Make You Money in 2012

We are hard at work and extremely excited for the 2012 football season. We have been receiving reports on all of the college programs and NFL teams throughout the off-season. We are as well prepared as anyone to produce a winning season and we hope you can join us for a PROFITABLE SEASON! Let's face it, most people wagering on football do not make a profit. It's not easy to do. It takes a lot of hard work to get that accomplished. Even then, if you don't know what to look for when handicapping football, the studying may not even matter. We do know what we're doing and we've proven that since 1989! Let us do the hard work for you in 2012 and you just sit back and enjoy the profits. After that, we know you'll keep coming back year after year as the majority of our satisfied customers do.

ASA featured on ESPN.COM

Chad Millman is ESPN's gambling expert (and editor of ESPN the Magazine) and does a number of columns throughout the year on that topic. He contacted ASA during the NFL season and wanted our opinion on why some of the NFL lines were moving or which way they might move. Here are some excerpts from that discussion which was featured on ESPN.COM…

- ESPN's Chad Millman…"For this week's rundown of line moves I called Mike Merlet of American Sports Analysts. I like Mike a lot, for several reasons… A few years ago he hired a UW stats professor to build a handicapping model for him that weighs factors like yards per play, yards per point, average plays per game and rushing yards gained and allowed. He also does his own extensive research beyond the math. And those are the 'cappers I like best: They don't just commit to one exercise but instead examine the entire spectrum of options."

ASA Football Highlights

- 13 winning seasons in 15 seasons on Top Games (5*'s and higher)
- 11 winning seasons (all picks released) in 15 years of business
- 10* Midwest Game of the Year wins big AGAIN – now 12-3 lifetime
- 9* College Game of the Year wins EASILY (covers by more than 3 TD's)
- 9* NFL Game of the Year WINS (underdog wins outright)
- 20-5 record the last four years in the NFL playoffs…#1 at Sports Monitor & Sports Watch
- ASA gives you a combined 46 years of combined handicapping experience (Lee & Mike both started handicapping professionally back in 1989!)

Big Season In Our Sights

Last football season was a rare struggle for us here at ASA. It was just our 4th non-profitable season since our inception in 1997. The good news is, like a blue chip stock, we've ALWAYS bounced back STRONG after an off year. In fact, our performance following our other three non-profitable seasons was as follows, +54 net stars, +65 net stars, & +89 nets stars! The moral of the story is this, the best time to buy is NOW as there is great value with ASA's stock. And remember, we make it REALLY EASY to receive our information with text, phone, internet and email updates all available.

Our Customer Retention Is The Best In The Biz…

The main reason for this is we win consistently. If you can't do that, you won't be viable in this business for very long. Handicappers come and go each year while we have been going strong since 1997. Also, we treat our customers well with no B.S. involved. We always tell it like it is (see our previous paragraph for proof). If we have a bad week, we don't skirt the issue. We'll have many more profitable weeks than losing weeks, however we aren't immune to a poor week, month, or even year. Nobody is, although some will tell you different. We call those outfits "scamdicappers" and if you've been wagering for awhile you've most likely come in contact with one or two. They come and go on a monthly basis. Anyway, back to us. If you ever have a question or comment, the owners of ASA (Mike & Lee) are available everyday to take your call. Our toll free number is 1-888-272-1098. For those of you who have been long time customers, we'd like to thank you and we look forward to working with you again this season. For those of you who have yet to try ASA, we're sure you'll be impressed and ready to join our lengthy list of committed customers.

Good Luck this season!
ASA Inc.

Lee

American Sports Analysts

Mike

Follow us!
twitter.com/asawins

What Makes ASA Different?

- We DO NOT call our customers - or anyone for that matter.
- 90 Percent of our clients are repeat customers.
- We are in the office everyday so feel free to call with questions or comments.
- The customer is our #1 priority because if you win, we win!
- We DO NOT use a "chew'em up and spit'em out" approach.
- We want you as a long-term customer.
- No false advertising or outrageous claims.
- Monitored by both the Sports Monitor and Sports Watch.

For those of you who have dealt with us in the past, you know that developing a trusting relationship will not be a problem. For those of you who haven't been with anyone from ASA, give us a try. You won't be disappointed.

Who We Are

American Sports Analysts, Inc. (ASA) was formed in 1997 and has quickly grown into one of the largest and most respected companies in the sports handicapping industry. The owners, founders, and handicappers at ASA are Lee Kostroski and Michael Merlet. We were previously employed at one of the oldest services in the nation (Doc's) and have now worked together in the industry for over 20 years.

Our rating system is from 3-to-10 stars. Our Midwest Game of the Year is our only 10-Star game each season. Anything 5 stars and above is considered a Top Game for us. One thing we will not do at ASA is try and sell you a Gold, Silver or Platinum package based on the premise that the more you pay, the better picks you receive. We charge one flat rate for a seasonal subscription.

How We Handicap

Our handicapping methods have been developed through years of hard work and research. Rather than implementing one specific strategy as many handicappers do, we intertwine many different philosophies when it comes to making our football, basketball, and baseball selections.

We start each week by scouring our computer database that can give us over 30 years of information on any situation you can think of when it comes to handicapping. We have developed many solid systems over the years, all of which are very successful. Strong systems in general are much more powerful than trends. A trend is normally delegated to one team or one series.

For many handicappers in our industry their selection process ends when their computer spits out football picks each week that fall into certain criteria. This may provide moderate success for them but we like to go the extra mile for our customers. We personally evaluate each team based on HUNDREDS of hours of watching live games, taped games, etc.

We are very confident in our ability to watch teams play and then project those evaluations into how they will perform in upcoming weeks vs. specific teams. After watching games each week, we spend countless hours combing over all of the statistics for each matchup, including offensive, defensive, home vs. road dichotomy and point-spread analysis.

We then check how each team matches up personnel-wise with their upcoming opponent. We expand on that by evaluating the strengths and weaknesses of every team and how they equate to this weekend's opponent.

We also have a number of contacts around the country who are close to specific programs. If one of those people calls and tells us that a team we are considering had a horrible week of practice and simply isn't mentally prepared for the game, then we must weigh that into our decision. Are there any key injuries? What has been their scheduling situation leading up to this game?

So as you can see, just because a game may fall into a successful system or the scheduling looks good to go against a certain team, that doesn't mean that we automatically use it as a selection. It must go through our in-depth process with all things considered before we give it the ASA stamp of approval.

Looking at games from all of these angles gives us the best of all worlds when it comes to handicapping. Our handicapping theories have proven successful over the years because we provide our customers with the one thing they look for in this industry and that is WINNING RESULTS!

Service Options

If you are an ASA customer, we will give you our best plays each week. Why should we give any client second-rate selections based on the amount of money they send us? One rate, one set of selections for everyone. The selections we feel give you the best opportunity to win!

If you are new to the sports wagering scene, you can understand that a great way to learn the lingo is to have an expert on your side. Better still, with ASA, you can have a team of experts, beginning with Lee and Mike and extending to professional handicappers like Joe Nelson of Nelly's Sportsline, Scott Rickenbach of Players Advantage, the staff Point Train, and longtime East Coast Handicapper Stan Lisowski. Let us help you understand sports wagering language and the meaning of odds and point spreads. Let us help you to have a profitable experience as a sports book player this season.

ASA's Conference Championship Outlook

ACC Conference Odds

Atlantic
Florida State	-125
Clemson	+500
North Carolina State	+2000
Wake Forest	+3500
Boston College	+5500
Maryland	+8500
Coastal
Virginia Tech	+300
Miami	+800
Georgia Tech	+1500
Virginia	+1500
Duke	+8500
North Carolina	Ineligible

Play On: CLEMSON (+500)

Clemson will be a stronger team than last year's edition that finished 10-4 and earned an ACC Title and an Orange Bowl berth. The Tigers started 8-0 and rose all the way to #6 in the rankings, but due to youth and inexperience, the pressure obviously got to them and they lost four of the last six games – including a 33-70 loss to WVU in the Orange Bowl. They are a year older now and the schedule is forgiving and we like the Clemson Tigers to win the ACC for the second consecutive season. QB Tajh Boyd came out of nowhere last season and threw for 3,828 yards and 33 touchdowns while rushing for five more. Electric receivers Sammy Watkins (82 rec, 1,219 yards, 12 touchdowns, ACC freshman of the year) and DeAndre Hopkins (72 rec, 978 yards, and 5 touchdowns) are both returning along with senior RB Andre Ellington (1,178 yards and 11 scores). With Boyd and his top three weapons returning, this offense has the potential to be one of the best in the nation. Defensively the Tigers struggled in 2011 as they allowed 29.3 points and 394 yards per game. Seven starters return, including six of the top eight tacklers from 2011. They also paid big money to bring in Brent Venables as the new defensive coordinator (had been the DC at Oklahoma since 1999). The Tigers open up conference play at Florida State on September 22, which is by far the toughest game on the schedule. They receive visits from Georgia Tech, Virginia Tech, and South Carolina; and they get a bye week before the big conference game against VA Tech. Last year these talented youngsters got a taste of triumph with an ACC Championship win over VA Tech, but disappointment of a bad bowl loss should motivate them for a hot start and sustained success over the course of the season. Take Clemson as the ACC Champions.

Big East Odds

Louisville	+250
South Florida	+300
Cincinnati	+350
Pittsburgh	+600
Rutgers	+800
Syracuse	+2500
Temple	+2000
Connecticut	+3000

Play On: PITTSBURGH (+600)

Pittsburgh had much more talent than its 6-7 final record in 2011 indicates. Four of their six losses in the regular season were by four points or less against strong teams (Iowa, Notre Dame, Cincinnati, and West Virginia). A lot of their struggles can be attributed to the fact that this team had to transition through five different head coaches since the end of the 2010 regular season. The Panthers hired their sixth new head coach this past offseason in former Wisconsin offensive coordinator Paul Chryst. Chryst's offense at Wisconsin set records the past two seasons (averaged over 41 points per game en route to two Rose Bowl berths) and he should work wonders with this unit that struggled last season. He also overhauled his coaching staff, but that's going to be a positive thing here for Pitt considering that the coaches are all familiar with each other. New offensive coordinator Joe Rudolph was the WR coach at Wisconsin last season while new defensive coordinator Dave Huxtable was the linebackers coach at Wisconsin last season. This staff has been a part of back-to-back-to-back 10 win teams at Wisconsin and they'll be able to instill winning mentality here to Pittsburgh. Offensively Pitt returns nine starters, including senior quarterback Tino Sunseri and star running back Ray Graham. Also the top five receivers return from last season, giving Sunseri many different weapons in the passing game. Defensively the Panthers weren't fantastic last season, but they only allowed 30+ points twice in 13 games. Five starters return to this defensive unit and we expect this new coaching staff to build a capable defensive front. The Panthers also lost 30 starts to injury last season and they built a lot of depth and experience because of that. The Big East is wide open now that West Virginia is gone to the Big 12 and we like the Pittsburgh Panthers to conquer the new look conference.

Big 12 Conference Odds

Oklahoma	-125
Texas	+300
TCU	+500
West Virginia	+650
Kansas State	+1000
Oklahoma State	+2500
Texas Tech	+2800
Baylor	+5000
Iowa State	+6500
Kansas	+12500

Play On: WEST VIRGINIA (+650)

The Big 12 will have a much different look and feel to it this season. After losing Nebraska to the Big Ten and Colorado to the Pac-12 last season, Texas A&M and Missouri left for the SEC this season. To make up for the losses, the Big 12 added West Virginia and TCU in time for 2012. Despite the fact that West Virginia will be in its inagural season as a member of the Big 12 after making the switch from the Big East, we like the Mountaineers' chances of taking home the Big 12 title. There's a lot of Big 12 familiarity within the WVU program. Head coach Dana Holgorsen worked at Texas Tech from 2000-07 and spent 2010 at Oklahoma State while new DC Joe DeForest was an assistant head coach at OK State from 01-11. Holgorsen runs a pass-happy offense that's similar to those of Oklahoma, Oklahoma State, Texas Tech, and Baylor. Last year was Holgorsen's first at WVU and he led them to a Big East title and an Orange Bowl victory over Clemson. The offense could be even better than last year's edition that averaged 37.6 points per game and 470 yards per game. Stud QB Geno Smith (66%, 4,385, and 31 touchdowns with just 7 interceptions) returns with an all-star cast on offense. The top three receivers are back in this vertical offense, including Stedman Bailey (1,279 yards and 12 touchdowns) and Tavon Austin (1,186 yards and 8 touchdowns). The top two running backs and 3/5 of the offensive line are also back, making this one of the scariest offensive units in the country. They'll be able to score with any offense in the Big 12, and the defense should be improved from a year ago. This unit is making the switch from an unorthodox 3-3-5 defense to a 3-4/4-3 hybrid. Six starters return, but like we said before, this unit should get an upgrade because of the coaching switch. They will be better than the defense that allowed 26.8 PPG last season. WVU's toughest game is a roadie at Texas. Otherwise it gets Oklahoma, TCU, Kansas State, and Baylor at home. In this year's new-look Big 12 conference, we like the Mountaineers at +650 to come out on top.

Big Ten Odds

Leaders
Wisconsin	+250
Penn State	+1500
Illinois	+2000
Purdue	+5000
Indiana	+6000
Ohio State	Ineligible
Legends
Michigan	+200
Nebraska	+385
Michigan State	+800
Iowa	+1600
Northwestern	+3500
Minnesota	+8800

Play On: NEBRASKA (+385)

In another year without a clear cut favorite, take the team with the third best odds to win the Big Ten. Nebraska has an easy non-conference slate that should allow them to coast to a 4-0 start before conference play starts. The Huskers draw Wisconsin and Michigan (the two other primary B1G contenders) at home and have revenge on their minds after big losses to each last year. They have road tests at Ohio State and Michigan State, but both of those squads are in a "rebuilding" year. Versatile QB Taylor Martinez returns for his third season as a starter and his passing numbers should improve considering that all three of his top receivers are returning - including true sophomore Jamal Turner, whom coaches and scouts believe is a big time NFL talent. The rushing attack will again be strong with RB Burkhead (1,357 yards & 15 scores) and Martinez (874 yards & 9 touchdowns) leading the charge. Defensively they lost three high draft picks, but this is a deep and experienced unit with seven returning starters and we expect the Blackshirts to improve on last year's surprisingly poor numbers. Coaches feel that this squad, as a whole, underperformed last season despite a real opportunity to win the Big Ten in its inaugural season as a member of the conference. Bo Pelini doesn't have the luxury of finishing below expectations again. Michigan is media darling in the Big Ten Legends division, but we feel that the Wolverines are getting a bit overhyped after just one solid season that saw a lot of fortunate finishes. And Wisconsin is the only real threat out of the Leaders division (with Ohio State serving a one-year post-season ban). We like Nebraska's chances up against both of those squads this season. Take Nebraska at +385.

Pac 12 Odds

South
Southern Cal	-220
Utah	+3200
Arizona	+3000
UCLA	+4000
Arizona State	+4000
Colorado	+8800
North
Oregon	+200
Washington	+1000
California	+1500
Stanford	+2000
Oregon State	+5500
Washington St.	+4000

Play On: OREGON (+200)

Outside of USC & Oregon, we feel that there are no other legitimate threats to win the Pac-12 this season. In the South, UCLA and Utah will be better, but both are still likely a year away from challenging USC. In the North, Stanford will still be competitors, but the Cardinal simply lost too much offensive firepower to be a legitimate contender. And with every "expert" seemingly hopping on the USC bandwagon, we'll gladly take last year's Rose Bowl Champs - the Oregon Ducks at +200 - to come away with the Pac-12 title. Last year's QB Darron Thomas surprisingly submitted his name to the NFL Draft, leaving Oregon to find his replacement. Sophomore Bryan Bennett performed well in limited time last season (369 passing yards, six touchdowns and 0 interceptions over eight games – including one start) and he'll battle redshirt Freshman Marcus Mariota, who had a terrific spring. Either way, the Ducks have seamlessly evolved from quarterback to quarterback over the past 5-6 years under offensive coordinator/head coach Chip Kelly. This year should be no different as we expect Bennett or Mariota to make an easy transition. Aiding the transition will be running backs Kenjon Barner and De-Anthony Thomas. Barner and Thomas combined to gain 1,534 rushing yards (7.4 yards per carry), 789 receiving yards (12.5 yards per reception), and score 30 total touchdowns! Both tallied those outrageous numbers despite playing behind LaMichael James (now in the NFL). They only have six returning starters on defense, but they include the top two tacklers, the best pass rusher, and the top cornerback. Oregon does draw USC on the road, but they get Stanford, Washington, and Arizona at home. Come December, we expect the Ducks to represent the North in the Pac-12 title game with a great chance to come away victorious. Take the Ducks at +200.

SEC Odds

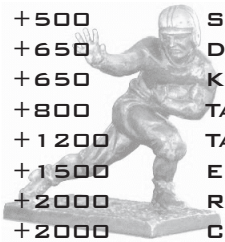
West
Alabama	+185
LSU	+200
Arkansas	+650
Auburn	+2000
Mississippi St.	+2200
Texas A&M	+5000
Ole Miss	+10000
East
Georgia	+500
Florida	+1000
South Carolina	+1000
Tennessee	+2500
Missouri	+3500
Vanderbilt	+5000
Kentucky	+10000

Play On: GEORGIA (+500)

We picked Georgia in this spot last year and the Bulldogs nearly came through for us. They had two close losses in their first two games of the season to #5 Boise State and #13 South Carolina. They bounced back by reeling off 10 straight wins and earning a representation of the SEC East in the conference title game. Georgia lost that game to #1 LSU and earned a trip to the Outback Bowl instead. Sixteen starters return to form one of the most complete teams in the country. Nine starters return on defense including top three tacklers and sack master Jarvis Jones (1st team All American last year). This unit allowed 13.3 points per game in 10 wins last season and 38.8 points per game in its four losses (all against teams ranked 12th or higher). Expect that big-game experience to pay dividends this season. Offensively star QB Aaron Murray returns after tossing for 3,149 yards and 35 touchdowns last season. Murray's numbers should only improve considering that five of his top six receivers return this season. Georgia' s top running back from last year, Isaiah Crowell, was arrested in early July and was dismissed from the team. Georgia signed two of the country's most highly regarded running backs, Keith Marshall and Todd Gurley, and both will fill in for Crowell. Marshall really impressed the coaching staff this spring, and both were expected to see time this fall even with Crowell still in the mix. Expect both to be ready for the college grind. The schedule sets up nicely as the Bulldogs don't face LSU, Alabama, or Arkansas and the toughest test will be road game at South Carolina. The Bulldogs are a strong bet to represent the SEC East in the conference title game for the 2nd consecutive year.

Odds to Win the Heisman Trophy

Matt Barkley	+385	Rex Burkhead	+2000
Montee Ball	+500	Sammy Watkins	+2000
Landry Jones	+650	Dayne Crist	+2000
Denard Robinson	+650	Keith Price	+2800
Geno Smith	+800	Tajh Boyd	+3000
Aaron Murray	+1200	Taylor Martinez	+3000
Marcus Lattimore	+1500	EJ Manuel	+3000
A J McCarron	+2000	Robert Woods	+4000
Tyler Wilson	+2000	Collin Klein	+5000
De'Anthony Thomas	+2000	James Vandenberg	+5000



Who's Taking Home the Hardware?
ASA'S 2012 Heisman Trophy Winner

Play On: Collin Klein (+5000)

Ten of the last 12 winners of the Heisman trophy have been quarterbacks. Five QB's have won the coveted trophy since 2006 and four of those quarterbacks were "dual-threats" (Troy Smith, Tim Tebow, Cam Newton, and Robert Griffin). There are three quarterbacks that fit that mold this season: Denard Robinson (+650), Taylor Martinez (+3000), and Collin Klein (+5000). Of those three, Taylor Martinez has been an abysmal passer the past two seasons and Denard Robinson has been a bit too injury & mistake prone. Last year was Collin Klein's first season as a starting quarterback for Kansas State. Klein tallied 1,141 rushing yards and scored a whopping 27 rushing touchdowns (tied for 2nd nationally). The senior spent the offseason improving his skills as a passer, where he wasn't flawless by any means in 2011. Klein passed for 1,918 yards with 13 touchdowns and 6 interceptions while completing just 57.3 percent. He showed major signs of improvement in the Kansas State spring game by completing 47 of 56 passes for 480 yards and six touchdowns! We know that a terrific performance in the spring game doesn't indicate what the regular season will be like, but it definitely suggests that Klein has worked hard on his craft and is ready to take the next step as an elite quarterback. K-State returns eight starters on offense, including its top two running backs, its top four receivers, and 3/5 of its offensive line – and that continuity will go a long way to help this offense. In terms of strong pass defenses, the Big 12 doesn't figure to have many. Texas was tops in the Big 12 last season, ranking just 47th in pass YPG allowed (West Virginia was 32nd, but that was against a Big East schedule). The pass happy Big 12 produced the surprise Heisman winner a year ago (Griffin), and we wouldn't be the least bit surprised to see Klein take home the honor this December. Take Collin Klein at +5000 as a Heisman longshot.

www.ASAWINS.com
1.888.272.1098

Follow us on Twitter!
twitter.com/asawins

National Championship Odds

LSU	+400	S. Carolina	+3500
USC	+400	Nebraska	+3500
Alabama	+500	TCU	+5000
Oklahoma	+1000	Auburn	+5000
Oregon	+1200	Florida	+5000
Florida St.	+1500	Kansas St.	+5000
Georgia	+1800	Wisconsin	+6000
Arkansas	+1800	Boise St.	+6600
Notre Dame	+2500	Michigan St.	+7500
Virginia Tech	+2500	Oklahoma St.	+8000
Texas	+2800	California	+8000
Clemson	+3000	Cincinnati	+8000
West Virginia	+3000	Mississippi St.	+8000
Michigan	+3000	Washington	+10000

ASA's Longshot to win the National Championship

Play On: Florida Gators (+5000)

*Note: While we picked Georgia as our SEC Champion, we still feel that Florida will be a strong competitor in the SEC race. And at 50/1 odds – compared to 18/1 for the Bulldogs – the prestigious Florida program is a great longshot bet to bounce back after two mediocre seasons and win it all this season.

The SEC has won six straight National Championships after Alabama took home the hardware last season. Alabama, LSU, Arkansas, Georgia, South Carolina, and Florida are all expected to battle for the SEC crown this fall. Out of that group, we feel that the Gators are a fantastic bet to make it out of the East and represent the SEC for a seventh straight Championship bid. Florida boasts a combined record of just 13-11 the previous two seasons after going 48-7 from 2006-2009 with two National titles. Head coach Urban Meyer unexpectedly left the program after 2010, leaving Florida to hire Will Muschamp. Muschamp is a defensive mastermind and is entering his 2nd full season as head coach with a lot of stability behind him. Seventeen starters return, including 10 on a defense that was already strong – giving this unit potential to be scary good this season. Fifteen of the top 16 returning tacklers return, including the entire starting secondary and linebacking unit from 2011-12. Offensively the main key will be quarterback play. Last year John Brantley struggled for the majority of the season, and a change will be welcomed here in Gainesville. True sophomores Jeff Driskel and Jacoby Brissett exited spring practice tied atop the depth chart at quarterback, but a lot of fears were calmed this spring by the play of both of the top contenders. Four of the five starting offensive linemen are returning, which will cause fewer headaches for whoever the new starting quarterback will be and it will also open holes for a new starting running back after the top two rushers graduated from a year ago. The schedule shapes up nicely as Florida will face its toughest two opponents, LSU and South Carolina, at home this season while getting Georgia in Jacksonville. Its conference road games aren't terrible – at Texas A&M, at Tennessee, and at Vanderbilt – and Florida should get through those unscathed. If the Gators can get consistent quarterback play, they will be strong enough to compete with anyone in the country. They are a worthy longshot bet at +5000.

NELLY'S SPORTSLINE'S GREEN SHEET

The Must-Have weekly football newsletter!

The 2012-13 Green Sheet

The famous weekly football newsletter covering every college & pro game of the season!

Full analysis and predictions on EVERY SINGLE GAME, plus tons of trends, statistics, and systems each week

Get the Green Sheet on your computer or delivered to your mailbox each week.

Highlights from the 2011-12 Green Sheet:

- 47-35 in NFL Key Selections for the regular season
- Winning Record Overall in Key Selections for the regular season (96-82)
- 22-9 in Rating 4 Key Selections for the regular season
- 20-10 in Rating 3 Key Selections for the regular season
- 24-18 in Rating 3,4, & 5 NCAA Key Selections for the regular season
- 29-19 in Rating 3, 4, & 5 NFL Key Selections for the regular season
- 19-7 in NFL Over/Under Game of the Week picks (including 6-1 in the NFL Playoffs)
- Winning Side & Total in Super Bowl XLVI
- Key Selections were 6-6 or better in 12 of 17 full issues last year
- Key Selections had a winning record in 18 of 26 reg. season issues the last two years!

THREE WAYS TO GET THE GREEN SHEET EACH WEEK!

Internet PDF version - $99: We release the newsletter at www.nellysports.com each Monday afternoon and you can get instant access to each issue as soon it as released through our website. The newsletter is generally 8-10 pages in length and is jam-packed with content each week. You can view the newsletter on your computer or download and print out a copy at home or work each week. The newsletter is released each Monday and is available to view until the following issue is released. Alternatively we can email a copy of the PDF file each week that you can pull up on your computer at your convenience.

1st Class Mail version - $129: We can print and mail a copy of our weekly newsletter to you each week. We ship out the newsletter via USPS 1st Class Mail as early as physically possible on Mondays and most clients will receive the issues on Wednesdays or Thursdays each week although we can not guarantee delivery by a certain day as we are at the mercy of the postal service and are susceptible to mail holidays. The newsletter will be printed on our famous green paper and will feature the same content as the online version, although we do occasionally make updates and corrections to the online version if relevant.

Call the Nelly's office to get signed up right away – mention this ad in the ASA Preview and take $10 off any subscription option.

1-800-336-3559
www.nellysports.com

ASA's High Roller Top Game Package

Not a seasonal subscriber? That's okay, you can still win with ASA! Get our BEST BET (5-Star and above) plays each weekend throughout the football season. These are the strongest selections that we release on a weekly basis and they set the standard for the Sports Betting Industry. Our Top Game players have shown a Profit in 12 of the last 14 seasons.

- You'll get All 5-Star and Above Plays (20-25 Plays) for the entire season ($50-$150 per game value)

- Includes All GOY selections - Midwest, College, NFL, NFL Total, Bowl, NFL Playoff and NFL Playoff Total ($700 value)

*Note: All Top Games are included if you're signed up for ASA's Full Season Football Package

Top Game Records

112-74 COLLEGE Top Game Record since 2000
154-111 COLLEGE & NFL Top Games since 1999
12-3 Lifetime on our 10* Midwest Game of the Year

Top Game Package: $645

1.888.272.1098 - www.ASAWINS.com

MIDWEST GAME OF THE YEAR

Another Year, Another Winner!

80% lifetime record

This 10-Star play is the highest rated selection that we release and the most sought after game by bettors in the country. The reputation of this game is growing fast and has captured the attention of every major sports booking operation in the world.

In a "Game of the Year" industry, it is simply known as THE Game. One Game... One Result... Another Win!

This game is included in our seasonal and Top-Game Package or can be purchased separately.

Call our office to be put on our Preferred Mailing List to make sure you receive notification of its release. You can also check out our web site.

1997	Michigan (+2) over Penn State, 34-9	WINNER
1998	Purdue (-13) over Iowa, 36-14	WINNER
1999	Michigan St (-6) over Ohio St, 23-7	WINNER
2000	N'western (-8) over Illinois, 61-23	WINNER
2001	Indiana (-3) over Purdue, 14-7	WINNER
2002	Colorado (-9) over Iowa St, 41-17	WINNER
2003	Purdue (-3) over Iowa, 27-14	WINNER
2004	Minnesota (-17) over Illinois, 45-0	WINNER
2005	Penn St (-13) over Wisconsin, 35-14	WINNER
2006	Iowa (-20) over Northwestern, 7-21	Loss
2007	Missouri (-19) over Texas A&M, 40-26	Loss
2008	Penn St (-15.5) over Mich St, 49-18	WINNER
2009	Missouri (-15) over Iowa St, 34-24	Loss
2010	Oklahoma (-24) over Colorado, 43-10	WINNER
2011	Michigan (-4) over Nebraska, 45-17	WINNER

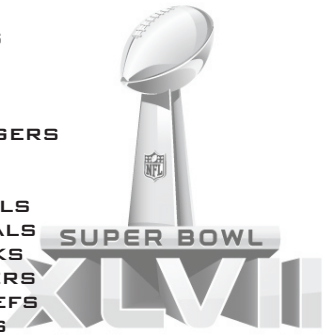
1888.272.1098 - www.ASAWINS.com

Midwest Game of the Year: $150.00
(Included in Full Season & Top Game Package!)

ASA's 2012 NFL Preview

Odds to Win Super Bowl XLVII and ASA's Picks

Green Bay Packers	+615
New England Patriots	+625
Philadelphia Eagles	+1015
San Francisco 49ers	+1050
New Orleans Saints	+1250
Houston Texans	+1410
Denver Broncos	+1450
Baltimore Ravens	+1650
Pittsburgh Steelers	+1815
Detroit Lions	+2050
New York Giants	+2050
Dallas Cowboys	+2250
Atlanta Falcons	+2550
Chicago Bears	+2550
San Diego Chargers	+2850
New York Jets	+3050
Miami Dolphins	+3850
Arizona Cardinals	+4050
Cincinnati Bengals	+4050
Seattle Seahawks	+5050
Carolina Panthers	+5250
Kansas City Chiefs	+6050
Tennessee Titans	+6050
Washington Redskins	+6050
Oakland Raiders	+7050
Buffalo Bills	+8050
St Louis Rams	+8550
Tampa Bay Buccaneers	+8550
Minnesota Vikings	+10550
Indianapolis Colts	+12550
Cleveland Browns	+14550
Jacksonville Jaguars	+14550



Odds to Win AFC

New England	+350
Houston	+615
Denver	+650
Baltimore	+825
Pittsburgh	+1050
San Diego	+1215
New York	+1250
Miami	+1615
Cincinnati	+1815
Kansas City	+2850
Tennessee	+2850
Buffalo	+3050
Oakland	+3250
Cleveland	+7050
Indianapolis	+7050
Jacksonville	+7050

Odds to Win NFC

Green Bay	+315
San Francisco	+525
Philadelphia	+550
New Orleans	+650
New York	+950
Detroit	+950
Atlanta	+1150
Dallas	+1250
Chicago	+1415
Arizona	+2050
Seattle	+2050
Carolina	+2250
Washington	+2850
St Louis	+3550
Minnesota	+5250
Tampa Bay	+5250

ASA's PICK TO WIN SUPER BOWL XLVII IS...

Play On: Green Bay Packers +615

The Packers finished one of the best regular season's in NFL history last season. Green Bay went 15-1 while scoring 35 points per game (1st in the NFL) and gaining 405 yards per game (3rd). QB Aaron Rodgers added an MVP to his resume after tossing 45 touchdowns and just 6 interceptions and it looked as though GB was headed for a second consecutive trip to the Super Bowl. Instead, the Giants caused the Pack to play their worst game of the season in the Divisional Round of the playoffs en route to their Super Bowl victory. The Packers didn't lose much from last year's prolific squad, while also adding some strong pieces this offseason – most importantly on defense – and we expect Green Bay to be right in the thick of the Super Bowl chase come season's end. The Packers gave up the most passing yards in NFL history last season and allowed the most yards per game overall. A lot can be attributed to the fact that Green Bay was usually winning (big) in games and defensive coordinator Dom Capers would call for a more conservative approach, so as to limit big plays and run the clock instead of blitzing and taking unnecessary chances. Also the Packers lost All-Pro safety Nick Collins to a season ending neck injury in week two while Pro-Bowl cornerback Tramon Williams played injured for the entire season after suffering nerve damage in his shoulder in week one. Still, there needed to be improvement. GM Ted Thompson used his first six (!) draft picks to upgrade the defense, most notably the pass rush. They drafted OLB Nick Perry out of USC and DT Jerel Worthy out of Michigan State, both of whom have high motors and are expected to start from day one. Also, with a full offseason to prepare (which no team got last year) it should help the young rookies get prepared to have more of an impact. Offensively, the Packers retained all of their playmakers and as long as QB Rodgers stays healthy, this unit shouldn't miss a beat in 2012. Take the Packers as your 2012-13 Super Bowl Champions.

ASA's Longshot To Win Super Bowl XLVII

Play On: Houston Texans +1410

I'll start off by saying I don't think the Texans success last year was a fluke and that they can be a team to contend in 2013. They play in the one of the weakest divisions in the NFL (AFC South) with the Colts, Jaguars and Titans who combined had a 16-32 SU record last season. It's highly likely they'll win the AFC South again this year as the other teams in the division haven't made significant improvements over last year's editions. The Texans did some outstanding things in 2012 and could see dramatic improvements in other areas of their overall game which makes them an attractive bet here. The Texans were very good defensively overall with the 2nd best Total 'D' in the NFL. Leading the way on the defensive side of the football were rookie J.J. Watt and linebacker Brian Cushing. If defensive end J.J. Watt picks up where he left off last season, he should go from the All-Rookie Team to be perennial Pro Bowl selection. Cushing led the defense with 114 tackles during the regular season and then added 19 more in the post season. The Texans as a whole allowed just 283.2 yards per game and were 2nd in the league in yards per play against at just 4.7 yppa. They can improve on their 3rd down conversion defense which was 12th best in the NFL but with nearly everyone back on that side of the football we expect that improvement to happen. Offensively they had some solid statistics which could get dramatically better this upcoming season. Houston was 5th overall in 3rd down conversions, 13th in yards per play offense and finished 13th overall in the NFL in total offense. They achieved those solid numbers without one of the best receivers in the game, Andre Johnson, and their starting QB Matt Schaub. Those two stars missed a combined 15 games last season to injuries. Schaub completed 178 of 292 passes last year for 2,479 yards and had 15 TD's to only 6 INT's before going down with an injury. In 2010 the Texans had the 4th best passing offense in the NFL when Schaub threw for 4,370 yards, had 24 TD's and only 12 INT's. With a healthy Andre Johnson back on the field we expect the Texans passing game to return to the form we witnessed in 2010. Those two key offensive injuries forced Houston to change their game plan which is one reason they'll be that much better this season. They now have a running game with Arian Foster leading the way. Houston was 2nd in rushing attempts per game and averaged over 153 yards rushing per game which was 2nd best in the NFL. Foster finished the season with 1,224 rushing yards which was good for 5th overall in the entire NFL. Houston did benefit from an easier schedule last year and they'll face a much tougher road schedule this season but if they remain healthy they can pull a couple upsets away from home. If you believe in the age-old-adage that to win in the NFL you need to be able to run the football, maintain possession of the football (3rd down conversions) and play defense then Houston has everything in place to make a serious run in 2012-13. As of this writing the Texans are currently +$1410 to win the Super Bowl. Bet it!

ASA's OVER/UNDER NFL Win Totals

Play On: OVER 6 WINS
Tampa Bay Buccaneers

Despite finishing just 4-12 last year, the Bucs came into the 2011 season with high expectations. Remember, this team was an impressive 10-6 in 2010 and made the playoffs. The main nucleus of that playoff team is still intact and we expect a bounce back season in 2012. The one change, which should be a positive one at least initially, is at the top where Greg Schiano has taken over as head coach. The former Rutgers head coach has already started to change the attitude in Tampa by basically telling starting tight end Kellen Winslow to hit the road. Schiano didn't like Winslow's attitude and traded him to Seattle and in the mean time picked up tight end Dallas Clark, a great locker room presence along with being a good receiver. QB Josh Freeman had a great year in 2010 starting all 16 games throwing 25 TD's and just 6 interceptions. Last year he took a big dip with just 16 TD's and 22 interceptions. We look for a much better year in 2012 for the talented signal caller. The defense also has nowhere to go but up. After allowing just 318 total points in 2010 (19 PPG) the Pirates were horrible last season allowing 494 points (30 PPG). Expect them to be much better on that side of the ball this year as Schiano really stresses that side of the ball. He drafted Alabama safety Mark Barron and Nebraska linebacker Lavante David with two of his first three picks. They will help from day one on the defensive side. Scheduling is always key when looking at NFL total win numbers. Tampa might have to send the NFL schedule makers a thank you card this year. Outside of division rivals Atlanta & New Orleans, the Buccaneers play only one team that had a winning record last year (NY Giants). Their strength of schedule is ranked 27th entering the year. Tampa simply had an off season last year. Their coach, Raheem Morris, didn't keep this team focused and was in a "lame duck" situation and the players knew it. Expect much better results this season. Again, this team won 10 games just two seasons ago and we feel OVER 6 WINS shouldn't be a problem in 2012.

Play On: UNDER 5.5 WINS
Cleveland Browns

Cleveland struggled through a 4-12 SU season last year and we don't expect things to get better for them in 2012-13. According to the Cantor Gaming line projections for the season the Browns could potentially not be favored in a game this season. The Browns have upgraded their talent through the draft with QB Brandon Weeden and RB Trent Richardson but don't expect those two to dramatically turn things around in their rookie season. Offensively the Browns were awful last season ranking 24th overall in passing and 28th in rushing. Defensively they were 2nd overall in passing yards against but that's skewed by the fact teams ran it down their throats and didn't have to pass. Cleveland was 30th against the run last year allowing 147.4 yards per game which doesn't bode well for them this year considering nine of their games are against teams that were in the top half of the NFL in rushing last season. We can't even make a case for them being competitive last year as they had the 5th worst point differential in the entire league. Cleveland was 0-6 SU against the AFC North last year and realistically could be the same again this season. They didn't play well on the road either with a 1-7 SU away record. We're not really sure how the NFL creates their schedules but they might want to take a long look at the process. The Browns were 4-12 SU last season but somehow they have the toughest schedule in the NFL in 2012-13. They get the NFC East with Philadelphia, Dallas, NY Giants and Washington and the AFC West with Denver, San Diego, Kansas City and Oakland. The AFC North is obviously loaded with Cincinnati, Baltimore and Pittsburgh all of whom made the playoffs last season. The Browns are making strides in the right direction which will pay off down the road, just not next season as we can't see them winning two more games than they did a season ago. BET UNDER 5.5 WINS!

For ASA's NFL Divisional Champions, please visit www.ASAWINS.com/articles

Stan Lisowski

Find us at www.ASAWINS.com

NOTABLE FOOTBALL RECORDS FOR STAN LISOWSKI

72-39 ALL FB Best Bets Last 2 years
10-5 FB 5/10 Stars Last 2 years
Have WON 40 of 58 GUARANTEED 2 out of 3 FB Programs Last 2 years
11-4 NFL Preseason Last 2 years
86-57 NFL RS Last 2 years
22-11 NFL MNF Last 2 years
20-14 NFL Postseason Last 2 years
11-4 NFL Postseason Best Bets Last 2 years
90-57 CFB Last 2 years
75-43 MIDWEEK FB Last 2 years

$279 September
BONUS-Receive AUGUST FOOTBALL Inclusive!
JOIN US and get the MOST VALUE with EARLIER the signup!

Fantasy Madhouse A Go-Go
Bye Week QB Backups from Stan Lisowski

As quarterbacks continue to steadily rise as the most productive scorers in most fantasy leagues, it is important to have a solid backup during your starter's off weeks.

The following identifies non-fantasy starters, (Average 16th or Higher Ranked QB), for each BYE week that have the best matchups against teams who allowed the most points to the position from last season.

BYE Week 4 - LUCK Indianapolis, ROETHLISBERGER Pittsburgh

Week 4 OPTIONS - GRIFFIN Washington at TB, PALMER Oakland at Den, FITZPATRICK Buffalo vs. NE, KOLB Arizona vs. Miami, CASSEL Kansas City vs. SD

BYE Week 5 - ROMO Dallas, STAFFORD Detroit, PALMER Oakland, FREEMAN TB

Week 5 OPTIONS - HASSELBECK Tennessee at Minn, WEEDEN Cleveland at NYG, DALTON Cincinnati vs. Miami, GRIFFIN Washington vs. Atl, FLYNN Seattle at Car

BYE Week 6 - NEWTON Carolina, CUTLER Chicago, GABBERT Jacksonville, BREES NO

Week 6 OPTIONS - GRIFFIN Washington vs. Minn. FLYNN Seattle vs. NE. CASSEL KC at TB, SMITH SF vs. NYG. BRADFORD St. Louis at Miami

BYE Week 7 - RYAN Atlanta, P MANNING Denver. CASSEL KC, GARRARD/MOORE Miami. VICK Philadelphia, RIVERS SD

Week 7 OPTIONS - SANCHEZ Jets at NE, KOLB AZ at Minn, GABBERT Jacksonville at Oak, FREEMAN TB vs. NO, GRIFFIN Washington at NYG, WEEDEN Cleveland at Ind

BYE Week 8 -FLACCO Baltimore, FITZPATRICK Buffalo, DALTON Cincinnati, SCHAUB Houston

Week 8 OPTIONS - FREEMAN TB at Minn, BRADFORD Stl. vs. NE, HASSELBECK Tennessee vs. Ind, CASSEL KC vs. Oak, SANCHEZ Jets vs. Miami

BYE Week 9 - BRADY NE, SANCHEZ Jets, SMITH SF, BRADFORD St. Louis

Week 9 OPTIONS - FREEMAN TB at Oak, PALMER Oak vs. TB, FLYNN Seattle vs. Minn, DALTON Cinn vs. Den, LUCK Ind vs. Miami

BYE Week 10 - KOLB AZ, WEEDEN Cleveland, RODGERS GB, GRIFFIN Washington

Week 10 OPTIONS - FITZPATRICK Buffalo at NE, FLACCO Balt vs. Oak, DALTON Cinn vs. NYG, GABBERT Jax vs. Ind, HASSELBECK Tennessee at Miami

BYE Week 11 - PONDER Minnesota, E MANNING NYG, FLYNN Seattle, HASSELBECK Tennessee

Week 11 OPTIONS - LUCK Ind at NE, PALMER Oak vs. NO, FITZPATRICK Buffalo vs. Miami, FREEMAN TB at Car, KOLB AZ at Atl

POINT TRAIN
SPORTS CONSULTANTS

Find us at www.ASAWINS.com

Point Train's September Football SPECIAL OFFER - Huge Discount!

+25.4 Net Units through the first six weeks of the 2011 Football season! Don't miss out on another FAST start to the 2012 Football season and sign up with our DISCOUNTED September package! Sign up for September Football for just $89.99! We had 56 picks through the end of September last season and at that rate, at just $89.99, you're paying just $1.61 per selection! Get an ENTIRE MONTH for just $89.99, you won't regret it!

Notable Football Records in 2012

Closed the NFL season on a 9-1 Run and +40.6 Net Units over that span!
BOTH 10-Unit NFL Game of the Year & 9-Unit NFL Playoff Game of the Year WIN
10-Unit College Game of the Year WINS
+28.4 Net Units to close out CFB season (11/12/11 through Bowl season)

Call the offices at ASA (1.888.272.1098) or visit www.ASAWINS.com

Point Train's 2012 NFC & AFC Longshot Selections

NFC Play On: Chicago Bears (+1415) - The Bears were 7-3 and had a five-game winning streak going into late November last season. Their only three losses at that time were to the then 7-3 Saints, the 10-0 Packers, and the 7-3 Lions. There weren't a lot of teams playing better than the Bears and it looked as though they were a lock for the playoffs. Then starting QB Jay Cutler and star RB Matt Forte both got hurt over a three game span and it was all downhill from there. Chicago went on to lose five of its last six games to finish at 8-8. Chicago made some strong off-season moves to solidify its stance as one of the teams to beat in the NFC. The Bears traded for the talented WR Brandon Marshall, who already has a strong relationship with Cutler from their playing days in Denver. They brought in veteran RB Michael Bush to spell Forte and veteran QB Jason Campbell as insurance if Cutler would go down again. They also drafted a strong pass-rusher (Shea McClellan) and another big WR target (Alshon Jeffery). A healthy Chicago squad should contend with the likes of Green Bay, New Orleans, San Francisco, Philadelphia, and New York for NFC supremacy this season - and at +1415, the Bears are a strong longshot.

AFC Play On: Baltimore Ravens (+825) - Baltimore won the AFC North last season, sweeping the division with a perfect 6-0 mark and finishing 12-4. They beat Houston in the divisional round before dropping the AFC Championship by three points to New England. Baltimore arguably outplayed the Patriots during that game (outgained them and forced three turnovers) but kicker Billy Cundiff missed a 32-yard field goal with 15 seconds remaining that would've sent the game into overtime and another shot at a Super Bowl berth. There's no reason to think that Baltimore won't be back and primed for another shot this season. Flacco had a great season along with RB Rice, and the receiving corps will be strong with Boldin, Smith, and young TE's Dickson and Pitta taking the next step. Defensively this team lost star Suggs to a torn achilles, but there's so much depth and talent on that side of the ball (3rd in yards allowed & points allowed in 2011) that there won't be much of a drop off. All signs point to the Ravens getting back to the playoffs with a strong shot at finally unseating the Pats as the team to beat in the AFC.

Find us at www.ASAWINS.com

PLAYERS ADVANTAGE
DOCUMENTED WINNERS!

Scott Rickenbach (Players Advantage) Football Highlights...

20+ top 5 monitored finishes since 2003
NFL Sunday Nights finish 2011 season 8-3
All Football Totals (CFB and NFL) 82-53 combined from 2010-11
Top game Bowl totals 7-4 in 2011-12 bowl season
All CFB Totals 64-36 (64%) L2 years
2011 CFB regular season ended on an 18-9 run and long-term 47-29 run with 34 of those 47 wins covering by at least a touchdown

Get ALL of Scott's Football Packages today at www.asawins.com. You can also call the ASA office at 1-888-272-1098 if you are interested in any of Scott's packages.

Scott offers Seasonal, Monthly, Weekly, and Daily Packages

2012 NFL MVP Prediction from Scott Rickenbach's Players Advantage: Michael Vick, Philadelphia Eagles (+1000)

When you think of MVP's in the NFL you immediately think of running backs and quarterbacks. The Eagles, set to be much improved in 2012, are well set at these positions with LeSean McCoy and Michael Vick. The key to making Vick my MVP choice for 2012 is the overall improvement expected from the Eagles in 2012 as well as how McCoy is going to set up Philadelphia's aerial attack for huge success. With defenses having to worry about McCoy, the Eagles offense will enjoy much success through the air. Note that Philadelphia was one of just four teams last season to have at least three receivers gain at least 800 yards. The Eagles offense and defense each were ranked in the top ten last season but Philadelphia was done in by turnovers as well as tight losses. After the disappointment of having their 2011 "Dream Team" season fall apart early on, Vick and the Eagles can't wait to redeem themselves. Let's not forget that Philadelphia lost many close games last season including situations where blown fourth quarter leads cost them dearly. The Eagles made significant offseason additions to their defense and this will help build a solid all-around team. In fact, Philadelphia is absolutely a Super Bowl contender this year. That means plenty of eyes will be on Vick and his expected success with this hungry Eagles offense this season. That said, he's a logical choice for MVP honors this season. The hunger and desire of Vick and his value as a leader will not only speak volumes for this team, it will also help earn him the MVP for the NFL's 2012 season.

ASA NFL - Early Week One Analysis

NY GIANTS (-3) vs. Dallas - Wednesday, September 5
NY was 2-0 SU & ATS against Dallas last season, including a 31-14 home win in week 17 that gave the Giants a playoff berth – which they rode all the way to the Super Bowl.

CHICAGO (-10) vs. Indianapolis - Sunday, September 9
There hasn't been a double-digit favorite in week one since the 2009-10 season when four teams were favored by 10+ (finished 2-2 ATS).

Philadelphia (-8) vs. CLEVELAND - Sunday, September 9
Philadelphia, the self-proclaimed Dream Team, started the season 4-8 last year. The Eagles ended the season on a hot streak, winning their final four games by an average of 19.8 PPG (4-0 ATS).

NY JETS (-5) vs. Buffalo - Sunday, September 9
The Jets were 2-0 SU & 1-1 ATS against Buffalo last season (failing to cover at home as a 9.5 point favorite). Buffalo finished 2011 losing eight of its final nine games (2-7 ATS).

NEW ORLEANS (-9.5) vs. Washington - Sunday, September 9
NO was on a 9-0 SU & ATS run before losing to San Fran in the playoffs. Washington's rookie QB Griffin has the tough task of starting his career in the unfriendly confines of the Superdome.

New England (-6.5) vs. TENNESSEE - Sunday, September 9
The last time these two met, New England won 59-0. The Pats were on a 10-0 SU run (just 5-5 ATS), winning by an average of 17.2 PPG before dropping the Super Bowl against these Giants.

MINNESOTA (-4) vs. Jacksonville - Sunday, September 9
Minnesota was 1-7 SU at home last season (1-4 ATS as a favorite) while the Jaguars were just 1-7 SU on the road.

HOUSTON (-6.5) vs. Miami - Sunday, September 9
Houston won at Miami, 23-13, in week two last season. The Dolphins finished last season on a 9-1 ATS run and they were 4-0 ATS as an underdog during that stretch.

DETROIT (-9) vs. St. Louis - Sunday, September 9
The Lions have only been more than a 9+ point favorite once in the last 10 years, and that was last season. St. Louis closed out last season on a 1-7 SU run (1-5-1 ATS).

Atlanta (-1) vs. KANSAS CITY - Sunday, September 9
K.C. was the team affected most by injuries last season and they'll have a handful of key contributors back. Atlanta was 2-3 ATS as a road favorite while KC was 4-0 ATS as a home underdog.

GREEN BAY (-7) vs. San Francisco - Sunday, September 9
The Packers were 7-1 ATS at home last season. San Francisco was 6-2 SU on the road and 4-1 ATS as a road underdog last season.

Carolina (-3) vs. TAMPA BAY - Sunday, September 9
The Panthers were 2-0 SU & ATS as a road favorite last season. Tampa lost 10 straight games to end the 2011 campaign, allowing 35 PPG in the process and losing by an average of 19 PPG.

ARIZONA (-1) vs. Seattle - Sunday, September 9
These two split the season series in 2011, with each earning a three point home win against one another. Arizona was 6-2 SU & 5-3 ATS at home last season.

DENVER (-2.5) vs. Pittsburgh - Sunday, September 9
This will be Peyton Manning's first regular season game for the Broncos. Pittsburgh was 2-7 ATS on the road last season, including a six point overtime loss in the Wild Card round to Denver.

BALTIMORE (-6.5) vs. Cincinnati - Monday, September 10
Baltimore was 2-0 SU & 1-0-1 ATS against Cincinnati last season. The upstart Bengals finished 5-1-2 ATS on the road last season on their way to a surprise playoff berth.

OAKLAND (-1) vs. San Diego - Monday, September 10
These two rivals split the season series in 2011, with each team winning on the others home field. SD was 3-5 SU & ATS on the road last season. Oakland was 3-5 SU & 3-4-1 ATS at home.

2012 SEPTEMBER PACKAGE

5 full weekends for the price of 4!

We normally charge $295 for 4 weeks of our football service… With our SPECIAL SEPTEMBER PACKAGE you will get 5 FULL weekends for just $295. Better yet, sign up by August 30th (the first day of college football) and we'll throw in our August College Football picks also!

THE SEPTEMBER PACKAGE

· All Top Games (5*'s and above)

· All 3* & 4* selections

· All opinions we have on weekday games (if not rated)

· Sept. subscription to our weekly newsletter… "First & Goal"

Just $295

www.ASAWINS.com - 1.888.272.1098

A.S.A.'s Words of Wisdom

This has become a very popular article in our Handicapping Preview Issue. We feel that this is the most important concept when wagering on sports. That is why we will continue to publish our "Words of Wisdom" each and every year. For those of you who have never read it, we strongly suggest you do. For those of you who have already read the article in the past, we suggest you do it again. Here goes:

More often than not, a winning season has as much to do with money management as it does picking winners. You show us a player with 60% winners and on the plus side at the end of the season and we'll show you 10 guys with the same games (60% winners) but down money when the season ends. The reason for this drastic difference is simply one word, DISCIPLINE.

To prevent this from happening, we'd advise a unit system based on your purse. Your starting purse should be the maximum dollar amount you can afford to lose for the season. You must set this amount aside and stick to it. You should never wager any amount that would change your lifestyle, win or lose.

Let's give you an example to show you what we mean. We'll set up a hypothetical purse of $6,000 for the upcoming season. First of all, do not exceed $600, or 10% of your purse, on the opening weekend. In fact, you should never wager more than 10% of your total purse on any given weekend. Second, you must establish a unit or star system for the games you will wager on. We will do that for you if you decide to join ASA's Football Selection Service. This part of handicapping is crucial as rating the games correctly could mean the difference between a winning and losing season. Now back to the wagering.

Let's say for example we have a 3*, 4*, and 5* play for you in College Football on opening weekend. Your opening purse is $6,000 so you do not want to wager more than $600 for the weekend. We have a total of 12* adding the three selections. You will divide the $600 by 12 to get the amount you should wager per star. In this case it comes to $50 per star.

Now let's say we win our two higher rated plays and lose our 3* selection. You will win $250 on the 5* selection, $200 on the 4*, and lose $165 on the 3* (10% juice figured into the loss). Your profit for the weekend will be $285, which is now added to the $6000 purse. The following weekend you will use the same formula but with a total purse of $6285. This means you will be able to wager $628 for the second weekend (10% of total purse).

It is imperative to use discipline and never exceed 10% of your purse. This system allows you to play more when you win and less when things aren't going as well. If you're the type of person who likes to double and triple up after a win or loss, you will find it's just a matter of time before your purse is gone.

Again, we can't stress enough the importance of a sound money management system. At the end of the season when we're plus units and happy with the results, we don't want you to be asking yourself, "where are my profits?"

"Lack of discipline leads to losing."
- ASA

www.ASAWINS.com
1.888.272.1098

Follow us on Twitter!
twitter.com/asawins